AN EVENING OF MUSIC.

Frederic Moss, the local musician, presented the following program of original compositions, before an appreciative audience last evening: Piano—Overture to the dramatic oratorio of "Judith." "The King of the Forest Am I" drama.

matie Bravoura song. "In Thy Dear Eyes," words and music by Mr. Moss. Piano—Menuet in A Major, Op. 14. "Twilight" Song-Reverie. Piano—Ensemble and Pyramid choruses, from the comic opera "Rameses, The I." "Year After Year," golden wedding love song. "In Nature's Rosebud Garden," words and music by Mr. Moss. Piano—Overture to "Katryn and Kristine," a romantic opera. In vocal numbers, Mr. Moss was accompanied on the piano by Miss Ethel Lawton. All of the compositions are of more than ordinary merit, some of them being particularly good. Although Mr. Moss had been under the doctor's care the past ten days, his vocal pieces were most favorably received. His voice is pleasing and shows thorough cultivation.

IMPRESSIVE WEDDING LAST TUESDAY.

(Contributed.) "Two loves came up a long, wide aisle And knelt at the altar there; One, tender and true, with the shyest smile, One, strong, elate and fair. "God bless them both in the holy place. A long, brief moment, the rite was done. On the human love fell the heavenly grace Making two hearts forever one." Surely the poet's words found an echo in the minds of those who, last Tuesday attended the nuptial mass celebrated at the wedding of Miss Mabel Krauss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Krauss of Ogden, to Mr. Herbert S. Crothers of Fall River, Mass. For weeks past the bride, who is one of Ogden's most lovely girls, valedictorian of the Class '10, Sacred Heart academy, has received unusual evidence of the esteem in which she is held in this city by old and young alike. Parties, showers, and gifts of worth have testified most eloquently to the love and devotion of admiring friends, and the climax was reached when Mother Church bestowed her blessing on a union which undoubtedly was formed in heaven. Sometime before the hour set for the ceremony, numerous friends had gathered in Saint Joseph's church, of which the bride was ever a most active member. Beautiful, indeed, were the decorations of the main altar, the heart gift of her devoted aunt, Mrs. Mary Connors, assisted by the ladies of the congregation. Roses and myriad lights made that and St. Joseph's altar veritable bowers while the sweet statue that adorns our lady's altar smiled from beneath her flower-laden arms a benediction upon the youthful child of Mary, who never spared herself in the past years to adorn that beloved shrine of which she had special charge. To it she bade a loving good-bye Monday afternoon when she spent some of the last precious hours that might have been passed in the dear home circle, in wreathing with fragrant flowers, the altar before which she had so often poured her girlish doubts and anxieties, and where finally counsel and comfort reached her honest soul. No wonder the lights seemed to burn brighter and our lady's arms appeared opened still wider to bless her faithful child. Shortly before 10 o'clock, the devoted mother, Mrs. P. C. Krauss, the aunts Mrs. Mary Connors, Miss Kate Kelly of Seattle, and some intimate friends were ushered to their respective places. Though mute, yet eloquent in its silence, stood the old organ which for so long a period had done service at St. Joseph's and on which Miss Krauss, for nine years, had faithfully accompanied the children's choir, and often performed services similar to those rendered so lovingly for her today. When the thrilling tones of St. Joseph's new organ pealed for the first time in the soulful Mendelssohn wedding march and announced the coming of the bridal party, the writer is safe in saying that many hearts beat faster and many prayers arose for the future happiness of the dear one, since she knows only too well "love is a fear that someone wept 'twixt hope and fear." Messrs. Steve Keogh and George Wall, in conventional costume, as ushers, led the bridal procession. Directly following them came the flower girls, little Katherine Krauss, sister to the bride, and Katherine Boyle, carrying baskets of roses. They were followed by Miss Marguerite McNulty as maid of honor, who was attired in yellow and carried yellow roses, immediately preceding the bride came the maids, Miss G. McNulty and Miss F. Sullivan of Salt Lake, dressed in pink and carrying pink roses. Leaning on the arm of her father, walked the bride, gowned in white and carrying a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The groom, with his best man, Charles A. Maguire, advanced from the sanctuary to meet his bride whom he conducted to the prie-dieu, where Rev. P. M. Cushman performed the ceremony that made the happy couple one, and, by a singular coincidence, on the anniversary of the very day twenty-eight years before when her father and mother were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. During the blessing and putting on of the ring Mrs. M. Kennedy sang in her soulful manner "O, Promise Me." During the mass, Mae Conroy sang a beautiful "Ave Maria," and at the request of the bride, as the party moved in solemn line to receive the Lord of Union and Strength, Mrs. M. Kennedy sang the soul-stirring hymn, "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy." After the special blessing which Mother Church confers on her favored children who comply so beautifully with her laws, Rev. P. M. Cushman, in a few heart-felt words, congratulated the happy pair, assuring them that the ceremony of the morning was worthy of their beautiful lives which he prayed would be as inspiring as they were today. To the strains of the Lohengrin march, the bridal party left the church and numerous friends waited in the vestibule to shower congratulations on one who proved herself in every detail of her wedding arrangements, as perfect a mistress of occasions as she showed herself when a dear little girl at Sacred Heart.

The wedding breakfast of five courses was served at the Virginia where covers were laid for twenty-seven, including Rev. P. M. Cushman, Rev. J. Ryan, Rev. L. Kelley, president of All Hallows' college, the bridal party and a few intimate friends. The color scheme was pink, and the decorations were most artistic. An immense bowl of roses formed the center piece, and the place cards were dainty hand-painted roses, while souvenir nut cups completed the effect.

The gifts were numerous and costly, testifying the esteem in which the bride is held—silverware and china predominating.

The happy couple left on the Overland Limited for Chicago, New York and Boston. After a month's stay in eastern cities, they will make their home in Spokane, where Mr. Crothers is a highly respected, alert young business man.

The residents of our city acknowledge that in the going of Miss Krauss Ogden's loss is Spokane's gain, for the young lady will undoubtedly prove herself an ornament to society, a leader and an aid in the parish she will adopt as her own, and a noble woman, reliable in every undertaking even as she has ever proved herself in her home town. Our God-speed shall be in the words of our esteemed citizen, Dr. Condon, who wrote to young friends on a like occasion:

"Fear not to launch the bridal bark, the main, Though drifting wild with wreck, is safe to you; The ship will mock disaster if the twin Command as one, and loyal are the crew!"

"Be brave! Across the azure sky o'erboard Sweep golden wings that promise many a song; The shores stand out in beauty, and are spread With leaf and bloom the whole year long—"

"And now may God be good to you and yours, Nor know you ever loss of peace or friend; To one who waits and patiently endures, Remember, victory, cometh in the end."

HUNGARIANS WANT AMERICAN COACH

New York, May 23.—Before sailing today to attend the international athletic federation at Lyons, France, Secretary James E. Sullivan of the Amateur Athletic union, of the United States, announced that he had received cable requests from S. Stankovits, Hungarian delegate to Lyons, to ascertain from George Orton, coach of the University of Pennsylvania track team, his terms to train the Hungarian athletes for the next Olympic games.

In response to Mr. Sullivan's message, Coach Orton said it would be impossible for him to consider a foreign offer because of a two-year contract with Pennsylvania.

Last Night I Started to Take a Bath in a Hurry!

And I Found an Abundance of Hot Water

I was agreeably surprised. I immediately knew some great improvement had been made in our water heating system since the waterback of our coal range had long been notorious for its inefficiency.

Upon inquiry I learned that there had been that day installed a copper coil water heater. A simple, still wonderful appliance, which only required a match to put it into operation.

It heats the water very quickly, furnishing enough for a bath in a very short while.

I learned that the cost of this water heater was very reasonable, and that the expense of operation was only a trifle.

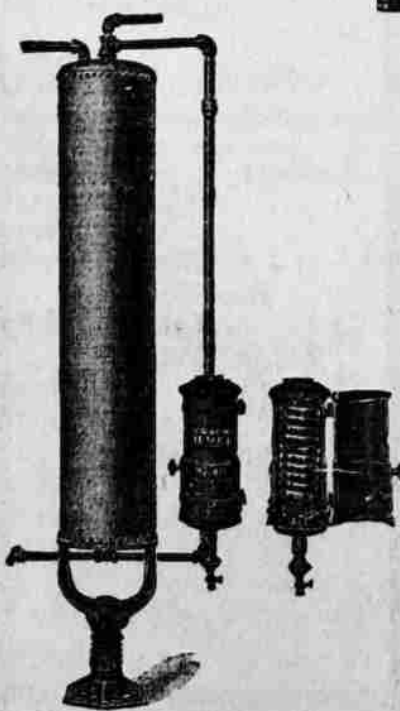

It is built most substantially, will last for years, and there is nothing at all about it to get out of order.

THE PANAMA CANAL. This wonderful waterway cost $75,000,000 and involved a nine-mile cut through a mountain, the erection of six pairs of gigantic locks, and a dam 150 feet high and a mile long. The distance it saves—6,000 miles—will revolutionize commerce and place the United States first among the leading nations of the world. The Anheuser-Busch plant cost about one-seventh as much as this canal—one was built by a nation, the other by an institution.

TWO GREATEST IN HISTORY

Panama Canal and Budweiser

The supremacy of Budweiser has been built up by the natural and continued choice of the people. Its sales exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles—proving its ever-increasing popularity.

Budweiser is brewed, aged and bottled in the largest and most perfect plant in the world, occupying 142 acres covered by 110 separate buildings. More than 7500 people are required to help Budweiser keep pace with the public demand.
